

Key Notes by Key

And still the HARVESTERS! Now we hear fewer notes of glee and more and more wails of woe. The exchanges are full of tales of people out of a job after two or three days at half-pay. Three of the boys were driven to the nearest bus stop; after paying their fare to Calgary they had only 22 cents between them, which left them two alternatives, the streets or the Salvation Army. They chose the latter. . . .

We read in The Varsity of the thirty McGill students who have returned from Saskatchewan. This is approximately 7.5% of the number who went out west and leaves the other 90% still out there and hard at work since we have received no reports to the contrary, but it seems awfully hard on the minority. It seems to us that somehow the arrangements could have foreseen the fact that some of the boys would have to return if they insisted that physical fitness be the only qualification exacted of the volunteers.

It is unwise to condemn the scheme wholesale because of the mishaps to the few. Rumour has exaggerated them out of all proportion, with the result that everyone is criticizing the government unduly and that never helps public morale. In other words rumor is back on the job, the fifth columnist job.

Something too much of this (according to Shakespeare) and on to lighter things. College papers, especially from the United States, all carry stories about the election of "queens" of all descriptions. "Home-coming" Queens, "Freshette" Queens and plain ordinary garden-variety Campus Queens. All of which reminds us of our own single attempt here at McGill last year to choose a campus queen. Our advice to the engineers if they want to run a successful contest this year is "Less publicity of the 'sweater' type and more accent on the facial beauty."

It seems The Varsity has a couple of crackpots on their hands — or something. The following ad appeared in their Classified Ad Section:

"Wanted—One female partner for All-V Dance. Applicant must send photograph and qualifications. . . ."

Well, apparently lots of people wanted to know how the undignified ad came to penetrate their column, and The Varsity took on the job of interviewing the perpetrators of the sacrilege. Perpetrators, because it turned out to be not one but three men who had written it. According to them they were conducting a serious experiment. Just what the experiment is supposed to prove is not quite apparent, but they seem to have reached the conclusion that a date bureau would fill a much needed spot on the campus at Toronto. This they deduced from the fact that a number of beautiful girls sent in their pictures in reply. They seem to forget that the applicants may be (a) using phoney photos or (b) conducting an experiment on their own account.

The oddest headline that has cropped up in our ramblings lately was one in the "Purdue Exponent" which states cryptically

CIVIL SERVICE OFFERS POSITIONS IN FISH

Don't ask us what it means, either, because we didn't read the story. Maybe we've hit the keynotes and maybe we haven't, it's hard to tell at midnight, three minutes before the deadline. Anyway, be seeing you next week now that these columns are running systematically—after a fashion.

Roberts Attends Opening Of R.V.C. Art Exhibition

Portraits, Still Lifes,
And Landscapes Included

The exhibition of paintings by Goodridge Roberts, on display for the remainder of the week in the R.V.C. Common Room comprises three portraits, and several still lifes and landscapes. Mr. Roberts himself attended the opening of the exhibition last Friday evening.

Goodridge Roberts is Canadian-born, and he has studied both in Canada and in the United States. His teacher in New York was Max Weber, who studied under Pizarro during his stay in France. Mr. Roberts admits that his painting shows, through this indirect contact with the French school, more of the French influence than the Canadian or American.

During a period of several years Roberts held the position of resident artist at Queen's University. He is a member of several groups and associations of Canadian artists, among them the Canadian Water Colour Society and the Society of Graphic Arts. Mr. Roberts is also affiliated with the so-called "Canadian Group". This group is an offshoot of an original association, called "The Group of Seven", of which Mr. Arthur Lismer, director of the Montreal Gallery, was a member.

Mr. Roberts has been living in Montreal for the past five years. Since his residence here, he has become connected with the Eastern Group and the Contemporary Art Association. This last-named society is an association of artists and laymen with an interest in art. Several of its members have shown paintings in exhibitions at the Montreal Gallery and other galleries in Montreal, among them Mr. Roberts.

Cast Announced for Radio Workshop's First Play

Sound Effects Courses at
C.B.C. To Be Arranged

The cast of the play chosen to be the first production of the Radio Workshop was announced last night by Stan Eidenberger, President of the organization. Rehearsals for the script, written by Norma Morris, will be announced later in the week. Members that are to take part in the production will be notified by telephone.

The cast will be as follows:

Catherine Merritt, Anne Hughes, Albert Silverman, Dorothy Hopson, Norma Morris, Douglas Cameron, Charles Wassermann, Griffith Brewer, and Violet McCammon.

It was also announced that sound effects courses may be arranged at the Canadian Broadcasting Company for those interested in this line of work.

Because of the number of members already signed up for the Radio Workshop, the membership must now be limited, the president went on to say, although room will be made for the Harvesters when they return if they care to join.

The script-writing staff for this week is to be Dorothy Hopson, Alice Bennett, and Fred Hurter, who are each to write a script to be handed in to the Union Tuck Shop some time during Wednesday evening. These scripts will be picked up by the Script-Reading Committee, Joan Cassidy, Charles Wassermann, Neila Black and Allan Thomson, and the best will be selected for presentation. The script-writers are asked to make three copies of their scripts.

Airmen to Hold Dance; 120 McGill Coeds Asked

The senior class of airmen at U.T.C. is holding its graduation dance in the McGill Union this Thursday evening. They have extended an invitation to McGill co-eds to be their guests at this dance.

Unfortunately, the room will not accommodate more than one hundred and twenty couples so the first one hundred and twenty girls who put in a bid will be the ones able to go. A list will be posted today in the Art's Common Room and also in R.V.C. It is important that girls interested sign early.

Newman Club To Convene

First Meeting
To Be Held On November 7th

The annual convention of the Canadian province of the Newman Club will be held in Montreal the week-end of November 6. Delegates representing many out of town universities, including Toronto, Queen's, Western, McMaster, and the Ontario Agricultural College, will attend the gathering.

The McGill Chapter of the Newman Club is in charge of the arrangements for the meeting, and in the opinion of the executive, the many events scheduled promise to be entertaining as well as instructive.

A preliminary event, which is designed to introduce the out-of-town delegates to the McGill members, will take the form of an open house and will be held at 341 Metcalfe Avenue, Westmount, on Friday, Nov. 6.

The first official event of the convention will be at 9.30 a.m. on Saturday morning at the Sacred Heart Convent, when a Communion Breakfast will be held. This will be followed by reports of the activities of, and discussions on, the Newman Club in each of the colleges represented.

That afternoon, at 1 p.m. at the Queen's Hotel, a luncheon meeting will be held preceding the main session of the convention. During the latter, Mary Roche, McGill's Newman Representative, will present an outline of the principles of discussion groups, to be followed by a mock discussion group which will illustrate the principles set forth. The day's activities will be concluded by a dance at the Union.

Grattan O'Leary will be the guest speaker at the last event of the convention, which is to be a breakfast at the Ritz-Carlton Hotel. Mr. O'Leary is editor-in-chief of the Ottawa "Journal," in addition to writing essays which have appeared in many Canadian and American publications. Last year he visited Britain on the invitation of the Minister of Information.

Hughes Seeks Federal Help

Stresses Need
Of Teachers
In War-time

Professor John Hughes, head of the Department of Education at McGill University, stated in a radio broadcast Saturday night that Quebec teachers will be forced to seek Federal aid, if the Provincial Government does nothing to help the situation.

In the broadcast, which was made over station CFCF under the auspices of the City Improvement League and the Municipal Service Bureau, Professor Hughes said "If we want an efficient educational service, we must make up our minds to foot the bill. . . . The matter brooks no delay. The crisis is upon us."

Present conditions made the task of the school teacher more important than ever since, wartime tensions and excitements increased, the natural restiveness of adolescents. In many cases, the father being on active service and the mother busy in a munition factory, home comfort was relaxed and problems of behavior arose.

"This is the point where the school teacher may become a vital factor in the life of the pupil, for a true teacher is vitally interested in the child as a human being," said Professor Hughes.

Looking at the matter from the standpoint of public policy, he raised the question whether sufficient manpower and resources could be allotted under wartime economic conditions to maintain schools at a high level of efficiency. In dealing with it, Professor Hughes pointed to the alarming shortage of teachers.

In particular he emphasized that adolescent boys need the influence of male teachers, hence, "the very patriotism of our teachers that (Continued on Page Four)

SCM Group Meets Today

Modern Theories
of Psychology
To Be Studied

Today at 4.30 p.m. in the S.C.M. house at 3574 University St. the first meeting of a discussion group on practical psychology will be held.

The group, entitled "Understanding Ourselves", will be led by Dr. Donald Ross. The object of the group is not the teaching of extraneous themes, but to discover what psychologists have added to the field of sound common sense. The works of Freud, Adler, Watson, MacDougall and the popular Dale Carnegie, stated a member of the executive, will be taken in their just merits in order that members may better understand their own motivations and behaviour. All interested in this series are invited to the first meeting.

On Tuesday at 4.45 p.m. the study group will discuss "Religious Resources". The group will study the various forms of worship, and the spiritual resources of life and will be led by Ed. Lute, the general secretary.

McGill Harvesters Happy, States Culliton; Queensmen Experience Serious Trouble

Farmers Queries Students' Help

Trouble Is Mostly Around
Saskatoon

Lloydminster, Alta., Oct. 22. — (CUP) — Many students throughout northern Saskatchewan are being discharged by their farmer employers, or are giving up their jobs because of what they consider poor working conditions.

Farmers in this area are generally believed to be dissatisfied with the labor supplied them by volunteer harvesters from eastern universities and colleges, and the students feel that the farmers' attitude is unjustifiably uncompromising.

"Appeal Questioned"

Some students here believe that the Labor Department's appeal to the universities for emergency workers to help bring in Saskatchewan's record wheat crop was made hastily, that the Saskatchewan Government did not investigate the labor-shortage situation in that province properly, and that many Saskatchewan farmers do not care whether they get extra help or not.

From this centre, just on the provincial border, about seven students have moved on to British Columbia on sightseeing tours; six have gone home; three are in hospital suffering from influenza; 10 have been discharged and 10 have resigned their jobs.

The situation is similar at nearby Marshall and Lashburn, where only about half of the students who came west aboard the Harvest Specials are remaining at their jobs. Some are doing government surveying work.

It has turned cold in this area in the past few days, and there was light snow here today.

36 En Route Home

36 of the student harvesters who went out to the Saskatchewan wheat-fields have been given their return tickets home during the past week as they proved physically unfit for the work.

Each case has been checked individually, reported W. W. Dawson, secretary of the Saskatchewan central harvest labor committee, as the Government does not want to drain the West of labor until the crop is in.

No particulars were available regarding the universities from which these students have come.

The work on several of the smaller farms has been completed thus releasing men for the larger farms where there is still much to do.

Prof. John Culliton of McGill University who is in Regina denies the rumors which have been drifting eastwards as to the hardships endured by the students and de. (Continued on Page Four)

MWSAA Holds First Meeting

Managers Will Discuss Sport
Plans Tomorrow

The first of the two semi-annual meetings to be held by the McGill Women Students' Athletic Association will take place tomorrow at R.V.C. at 4 p.m. At this meeting the coed athletic activities for the current year will be discussed, and all are welcome to attend.

The managers of the various sports will present reports on their past and future programs, and those managers who have been appointed by the executive to fill posts vacated since last session, will be introduced to the meeting. It is also planned to elect a new treasurer. Owing to wartime considerations tea will not be served as has been the custom on previous occasions.

Southam Press Assists in Feeding Harvesters

It was announced yesterday by Ruth Hill, President of the Women's Union, that arrangements made by R.V.C. to feed McGill's harvesters at Winnipeg were carried out through the co-operation of the Southam Press. She explained that the Press spent the cash outlay necessary to feed the harvesters, with the understanding that R.V.C. would reimburse them later.

Miss Hill stated that R.V.C. owe a deep debt of gratitude to through their ready and friendly Southam Press, as it was only through their ready and friendly co-operation that the scheme could be carried out smoothly and with a minimum of difficulty.

Dobie Directs IVCF Meeting

Importance of Teacher's Role
Is Discussed

The Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship held the second in its series of bi-weekly Firesides on Saturday night at Student House, 3445 Peel Street. The series is entitled, "Christianity Is Christ" and the topic of this week's discussion was "The Teachings of Christ."

The meeting was under the direction of George Dobie, who is a member of the Fellowship.

Mr. Dobie stated that the teachings of Christ cannot be divorced from the character and personality of the teacher. It is the character and personality of a person which determine his or her attractiveness. The speaker said that Christ spoke with authority. He spoke as the Son of God. He also spoke with great spiritual power because He was one with God. Mr. Dobie stated further that the teachings of Christ are not a legend of the past but are one with the Teacher who is living today.

The speaker went on to tell of the claims of Christ. First he said that Jesus taught about the Kingdom of God, "Whoever will may (Continued on Page Four)

La Societe Francaise Will Meet on Thursday

Letter Refutes
Local Rumours
of Hardship

Owing to increasing anxiety on the part of the parents of McGill Harvesters, Principal F. Cyril James recently sent a telegram to Professor John Culliton. Professor Culliton's answer is being made public, in order to allay fears concerning McGill's contingent.

Another letter was sent to Dr. James, reiterating the statements by Professor Culliton. It was from Mr. L. Dawson, Secretary of the Harvest Labour Committee. Both letters are printed in full below:

Culliton's Letter
Regina, Saskatchewan,
October 22, 1942.

Dr. F. Cyril James,
Principal,
McGill University,
Montreal, Que.
Dear Mr. Principal:

In answer to your wire of October 22nd. Thirty-five students are either en route or are leaving tonight. They found the work too hard for them. Not one of them is ill beyond not feeling quite up to the mark. All of them tried, but they just could not stick it. In most cases they were too young or too slight; the others subject to asthma.

I have instructed them to report immediately on arriving to Mr. Matthews or to the Registrar at Macdonald's College.

It is true that there are more men than jobs just now, owing to rain on Tuesday. However, they are being put up at no expense to themselves. The Government is most anxious to keep them here until tomorrow (Friday) in case a man shortage does develop, which is quite possible. If there is no work for them by Friday I have been assured that they will be allowed to return to Montreal. If they have no money for their tickets or to eat on the train the Government will look after them. They do not number more than ten at present.

The bad publicity that has been coming out has been coming from Saskatoon and points in Alberta. None of our students are in these districts. I am enclosing clippings from the Regina Leader Post which tell the story here.

It looks now as though the boys will be able to leave here by the 31st, arriving back November 2nd. I shall let you know by Monday if there is any change in this.

I shall be glad to give you any further information that you would like at any time.

I think you may rest assured that the whole scheme as far as McGill and Macdonald is concerned has been a success.

Yours sincerely,
(Signed) John Culliton,
Dawson's Letter.

Reports from the West

The news from the west appearing on page one discounts all the rumours that have been emanating from various sources concerning the working conditions of the student harvesters from McGill.

Professor Culliton, in reply to a telegram from the Principal, says that of the four hundred odd students that left for the West some thirty-five will be returning because they found the work too strenuous. In such cases where the students are not put up in some private home they are being accommodated at government expense at the Y.M.C.A. or in clean hotels.

There appears also on page one a comprehensive report from L. Dawson, secretary of the Harvest Labour Committee, in which the complete picture is given of the labour conditions. Difficulties are experienced only in the region around Saskatoon, and it is known that no McGill men are stationed in the area.

When students were sent out to the west there was some doubt in the minds of skeptics as to their ability to harvest, but in the words of Mr. Dawson "from the point of view of harvesting and threshing our crop, the plan was an unqualified success". In the past twelve days according to Mr. Dawson more progress was made than in the previous two months.

Once again, students have shown their ability to undertake any job or responsibility, and execute it in a manner that is a credit to any group of qualified and experienced individuals. In addition parents are assured that their children are being properly treated and cared for; provisions for catching up on their studies will be arranged by the university on their return.

School for Teachers

Last February the Macdonald College School for Teachers was transferred to the McGill campus. The women students who comprise the great majority of the school, took up residence in Strathcona Hall, while the S.C.M., whose headquarters were formerly in the Hall moved to another house, on University Street. This transfer was necessary because a portion of the buildings at Macdonald, including that which housed the School for Teachers, had been turned over to the Canadian Women's Army Corps.

The members of the school are those who are studying for the elementary and intermediate class teacher's diplomas that are awarded by the Province. They attend lectures in Strathcona Hall and in R.V.C.

This year the teachers have continued their residence in Strathcona Hall, and are perhaps more settled and better adjusted to their change than it would have been possible for them to be after having been "uprooted" in the middle of their session. Though the teachers are seldom in evidence around the main part of the campus, due to the situation of their house, campus bodies have realized the fact that they are guests at McGill, and have treated them as such.

Last year the "Daily" issued an invitation to any of the girls who were interested in journalism, and particularly to those formerly associated with the Macdonald "Fait-ye Times", to join the reporter staff. This invitation has been renewed this year. President of the Women's Union, at the last meeting, announced that all members of the School for Teachers, though not members of the Women's Union at McGill, are welcome to attend meetings and express their opinions on Women's Union activities.

This example set by the Women's Union, and several campus clubs is one that might well be followed by the other organizations and societies at McGill; co-operation throughout to include the teachers in all activities where it is possible, would be a gesture welcome to our guests.

"WAKE ISLAND."

AT THE PALACE.

Paramount picture directed by John Farrow. Screen play by W. R. Burnett and Frank Butler based on factual reports from the United States Marine Corps. Photography by Theodor Sparkuhl.

In making a film such as "Wake Island", it is very difficult to please all sections of the public. For this reason you must give it a fair chance, if you want it to entertain you. If you have made up your mind that it is mere propaganda—full of mock heroics, impossible facts and technical inaccuracies, then you can forget it here and now. If you are prepared to accept these faults in small quantities, then you will be glad that you have seen it. With a few corrections in your own mind, you should be able to get a good picture of the heroic fighting on Wake Island.

As the story begins, peace still reigns and you are with the new commandant (Brian Donlevy) on your way to the tiny island of Wake. Here is a mere "sand pile", of great strategic importance in the event of war, but now defended by six five inch guns and a handful of Marines. These Marines are seen at work and at play, and are very well portrayed. Who would think that these amiable youngsters could fight in a war?

War then comes to Wake in the form of a heavy bombardment from the air. The inevitable dogfights ensue with the defenders hopelessly outnumbered. The two sides are easy to tell apart—all the pilots on one side have evil leers and ugly faces and their planes are distinguished by a stream of black smoke behind them.

Just as the last of the wreckage is being cleared away, a landing party steams over the horizon with a heavy escort of cruisers and destroyers. Two or three weeks later, the last Marine is killed and the island falls into the hands of the Japs.

The dialogue throughout has been carefully prepared and there is excellent comic relief at the points where it is most needed. These factors, combined with some remarkable action shots, help to make this movie worth seeing.

A short with Harry James, and a good cartoon, form the nucleus of a good supporting program, which rounds out the show.

"ONE NIGHT OF LOVE."

AT THE PRINCESS.

Columbia picture directed by Victor Schertzinger. Screenplay by S. K. Lauren.

Characters: Mary.....Grace Moore
Monteverdi.....Tullio Carminati
Bill.....Lyle Talbot
Lally.....Mona Barrie
Angelina.....Jessie Ralph
Giovanni.....Luis Alberni
Galuppi.....Andres De Segura
Frapapazini.....Rosemary Gloz
Muriel.....Nydia Westman
Cafe Proprietor.....Henry Armetta

Although filmed approximately eight years ago, "One Night of Love", starring Grace Moore and currently showing at the Princess Theatre, has retained much of its charm and all of its appeal for Grace Moore fans.

The story is based on the familiar theme of a struggling, obscure singer (Grace Moore) making good and ultimately marrying her teacher (Tullio Carminati), but the generous sprinkling of musical sequences throughout the whole picture compensate for any lack of plot originality. Not only are the musical numbers numerous, but their quality and the choice of songs have rarely been equalled on the screen. It is not often that arias from "Madam Butterfly", "Lucia", and "Carmen", as well as such well-loved songs as "The Last Rose of Summer" and "Cliribribin" are all sung in the same picture, and Grace Moore does more than justice to them all.

Acting technique has altered since 1934, and Tullio Carminati, as the suave Latin hero, is definitely out-dated. Where acting is concerned, Grace Moore, too, belongs strictly to the operatic stage and not to the screen. Although her vivacious personality lends a certain charm to the role of Mary Barrett, most of her lines have an amateurish ring.

Mona Barrie, as the siren, is excellent and her beauty is not obscured even by her quaint marcel-waved hair-do. Jessie Ralph also carries off acting honors and Luis Alberni, as Miss Moore's accompanist, steals every scene in which he appears. 1934 vintage humour is apt to be a trifle stale, but Alberni still provides a few good laughs even after all these years.

Although errors in production are apparent to the veteran movie-goer of 1942, the eight-year-old "One Night of Love" is worth seeing for Grace Moore's singing alone.

"Atlantic Convoy", the added attraction, features John Beal. The plot concerns espionage activity in Iceland which leads to the sinking of several American cargo ships. Though a grade B picture, it is better than average and is written from a more original angle than most run-of-the-mill spy pictures. — S. A.

SOMEWHERE I'LL FIND YOU.

"Somewhere I'll Find You" could well have been called "Honky-Tonk, the Second", as far as the first part of the picture is concerned. But, surprisingly enough, the plot works up to a rather original, dramatic conclusion.

The earlier part of the movie introduces us to the two Davis brothers, Clark Gable and Robert Sterling respectively, who are war correspondents. They are very loyal brothers, until trouble, in the form of Lana Turner, enters the picture. Clark Gable (Robert Sterling) is in love with Lana, and she rather likes him, until Gable meets up with her. Need we say, they fall in love with each other. Then starts Gable's great battle between his love for Lana, and his loyalty to his brother. This earlier part of the film makes little attempt to show Clark Gable as the fine actor he is, but rather as the "great lover".

After Pearl Harbour, the picture takes on a different tone. Lana, who plays the part of a woman correspondent, is shipped to Indo-China. There she meets the two Davis brothers again, and Gable, out of loyalty to his brother, leaves. But they meet again in Manila on Dec. 7, 1941. There the picture builds up to a dramatic finish, depicting vividly the heroism of Bataan.

The best scene in the picture shows Gable dictating his dispatch on the bravery of Bataan's defenders, on the eve of its fall. As Gable expresses it, "Don't forget their names". Nor can we, both from the realism of the final scenes and from the actuality of the event itself.

Gable, when given the chance, contributes some fine acting. Lana Turner shines in the picture, more for her beauty than her acting. Robert Sterling adds good support to the film.

If only for the final scenes, we recommend this picture to theatre-goers.—H. B. J.

Correspondence From the West

(The following article which appeared in the Regina, Sask., Leader-Post has been quoted in full in the hope that it may clarify reports of the problems of the harvesters from Montreal which have been given much space in the local press.)

Complaints that some farmers had tried to "chisel" on wages paid for harvesting have been voiced by youthful harvest helpers from eastern Canada who have been out on Saskatchewan farms and have drifted back to the cities.

But with an estimated 5,000 harvesters in the province from the east the number of complaints were few. Majority were buckling down to the hard life of harvesting and doing a good job, judging by the rapid progress now being made in getting the crop off the land.

Accommodation offered student harvesters in some districts also caused groups of the boys from the east to decide they'd had enough of western farm life.

However under the harvest excursion agreement between the governments and the railways no harvesters will be sent back on the special excursion fares until Oct. 31 at the earliest. Only harvesters who have been allowed to return east are those who have taken ill.

Complaints Received

W. W. Dawson, secretary of the Saskatchewan central harvest labor committee said complaints had been received about farmers "chiseling on wages" but compared with the number of students engaged in the province the complaints were few.

Prof. John Culliton of McGill university, Montreal, who is in charge of 500 students from McGill and Macdonald agricultural college, now in the west said there had been a "certain amount of wage trouble" among his group of boys. Each day one or more of the students contacted Prof. Culliton with a grievance but after talking it over, the boys agreed to go out to other farms. About 50 boys had approached him to iron out some problem since they arrived more than two weeks ago.

Time Not Credited

One of the chief complaints regarding wages is that the farmers in some cases have not been counting the time the boys spend working on the farm doing chores. They get up early in the morning and do chores but the farmer only pays them on the total time spent out in the fields harvesting.

Cases of young students being hired ostensibly at the minimum wage of $4 a day and only receiving $2.50 or $3 have been reported to harvest officials in Regina. Other boys returned to the cities with tales of having to bed down in barns beside horses, or even sleep out in the open.

"We thought we were coming here as heroes to help with the harvest and save the grain for the United Nations but we soon found out it was strictly a business proposition as far as the farmer was concerned," said one student from Toronto university. He did not want his name mentioned because "I liked the farmer I worked for and wouldn't want him to think I didn't appreciate the way he treated me."

Inexperienced Men Costly

The student added: "I've talked to a lot of farmers and they all say the same thing. Hiring inexperienced help at $4 a day makes the crop too costly to harvest and even if they do get it off the land they can't sell it."

And the farmers, too, have their complaints. Majority of the students from eastern Canada had no harvesting experience. The boys had to be taught harvesting operations and he paid full wages when most of them were only able

SONG OF THE MASSES

The notes of the song grow quiet. They are sun on a noonday hill, they are calm on a summer shore. They are soft breath of a contented breeze.

For the struggles of the soul alive has become a dream, a fantasy. Or the soul alive has become the pen. Or the pen is the soul alive.

I love the smell and sense of rain on sand. The feel of a sultry oneness the feel of God Eternally bending down close, near. Two worlds of nothingness stretching into forever. Meaning everything. Here is the goal of my dreams, the vision of my desire. For I am the world and the world is me.

The sun is bright in the middle of July. While days stretch lazily into days. The only ends of it all two infinites of blue and white.

Waiting, feeling, merging, till I am the dividing line between sky and water.

Or the humble sense of a true greatness. For I am all the world. Sand under my feet.

The soothing warming sun is enthroned on high and his dream-inspired smile comes down through myriads of centuries to me, the nothingness below. The courtier drifting clouds with youthful pride, their whitest robes do wear. The messenger wind searches wisdom from all that has ever been and carries it gently down through space and time to my heart.

The gently lapping waters on the sand hold wisdom greater than the world has ever known.

It is warmth, peace, thought. More of the heart than of the mind.

How can the notes of the song be anything else but quiet symphony. They are the heart, they are the soul of the mass.

They are not strife, they are not battle. They are the eternity for which we seek. The strife must come before and after.

This is a moment, this a sight, a glimpse of what we seek. It comes under the moon, or alone in a room.

If we could live a world, if we could build a world like grains of sand, how close to heaven it would be.

It is the final movement of the song of the mass. We shall reach it sooner if we search the sight of it sometimes, and strive to it always.

This is not laziness I sing, but we must be young enough to dream so that we can be strong enough to strive with courage and faith.

The vision of the oneness of the world fades back but is not forgotten. We return to the world of chaos. It is a hard world, but it is a wonderful world.

For out of this world will one day be built our song forever. It will be built by youth, And I am young.

THERE ARE BOYS

Infallible fellows,
Egotistical, conceited
You expand with praise
Deflate when defeated.

Unparalleled fellows,
At least you believe so,
You thrive on attention—
Insatiable ego.

Garrulous fellows,
Unrivalled for talking;
Adept at athletics,
Consisting of walking.

Inaccessible fellows,
You're brutally frank,
When you're quiet it's a sign
Your mind is a blank.

Incorrigible fellows,
But let's hope and pray
You develop some sense
In the forthcoming day.

A MOTHER'S DREAM

The Golden rays of the May sun penetrated the window aperture and fell on the mother nursing her baby. The clock struck its monotonous twelve beats as the baby finished with its mother's sweet breast. Its little face began to shine with joy. After a while it closed its eyes and was sound asleep.

The mother stared at her baby boy with great delight.

She kissed it quietly and put it in its cradle, taking a seat near by. Slowly she too closed her watchful eyes and submerged in peaceful sleep. In her dreams a fear overwhelmed her. She beheld an angel leaning over her only baby son.

"He comes to take my son away," she thought.

The angel knew the mother's thought and said: "I did not come to take away your son. The angel of sleep is more majestic than me. His wings are much longer and shine twice as much as mine."

"Oh," cried the mother in the deepness of her heart, "my son will become an orphan, an orphan without a mother."

This time, too, the angel knew the mother's thought. He consoled her with the following words: "You too will not die. I am the angel with a message for your son." The mother opened her eyes and stared at the angel. She eagerly observed the beam of light shining forth from his snow-white wings, as the angel uttered the message. "Your son will grow and be a prophet."

The mother could not comprehend the message. She bowed and said, "Pardon me your honor, can you tell me what is the law of the prophet?" Upon which the angel answered, "There is no law for the prophet. He is the one who seeks law and justice."

"Your words puzzle me," said the mother, "please tell your servant what the prophet does. Does he build towers and castles or fortresses? Or maybe he breaks through mountains? Or does he build iron railroads? Or maybe he does cure the sick?"

Tears burst out from the angel's eyes as he answered, "The prophet destroys and builds. He destroys evil and builds justice... he builds railroads, but iron is unobtainable for him; he builds the path of spirit for people of spirit."

"He also breaks through, as you said, but not mountains, for an angel shall not rest in his hands. He breaks through human hearts. He also cures... he cures people with broken hearts."

Upon this the mother burst out in a bitter cry, "Oh how unfortunate I am! You speak about my son and my heart trembles for fear." She bowed again and said, "What will be the compensation of the prophet—maybe I will understand this?"

"Stones!" answered the angel. A ray of light appeared in the mother's eyes. "Great will be my son! Not silver or gold will be the compensation of my son, but stones, valueless stones!"

"Not valueless stones," was heard the sorrowful voice of the angel, "not even expensive stones. He will be paid with stones from the ditch and mud."

"Oh angel, you make fun of my servant. Please, I beg you, tell me the truth of your words."

"Stoned, stoned will be the prophet, for a prophet is he!" The mother opened her eyes and burst into a bitter cry until she fainted. When she came to herself, she found the baby awake and a ray of light shining from his sweet childish face.

Independents Take Honours in Track Meet

Walker Paces Winners With Highest Aggregate

Freshman Roche Places Second for U.A.T.C. With 31.5 Points

In the last half of the annual McGill Track Meet last Friday afternoon the Independents again proved their superiority by garnering 108 points. Their star was Harris Walker who chalked up 32 points for his team. This is the second year running that Walker has taken the highest aggregate. He was followed by Frank Roche, a freshman, from D'Arcy McGee, who had 31½ points.

In point of distribution, the U.A.T.C. ran second with 87 points followed by F Company with 50. Roche was the main scorer for the Air Force. Besides Walker, Joe Berman, Johnny Karefa-Smart and Stewart Cooper were the major point-getters for the Meds.

BERMAN WINS HALF

In the half-mile event, Joe Berman took the lead from the start and although pressed in the straight by Ballon, he kept his place. Ballon's spurt probably lost him second place for it enabled Jim Gillespie to forge ahead, crossing the finish line second.

Walker also took the 120 low hurdles and the discus throw, two of his specialties. In all Walker had five firsts and he placed third in the 220 yard dash. The runner-up Frank Roche took the 220, but most of his other points were scored by placing in all the events he entered. In the high jump Karefa-Smart made 5'4". This was under his usual mark of 5'7". Olson ran him a close second but couldn't quite make the winning height.

FROSH STRONG

Mr. Van Wagner who directed the track meet said that this year's turnout of Freshmen was the most promising he had seen in several years. Formerly, the Freshmen very seldom placed in any of the major events. But this year with Ballon winning the mile, and Roche the 220, a precedent has been established.

The poor showing of A, B, and C companies was probably due to the fact that 300 of their men have gone west with the harvesters.

The results were as follows:

220 yard dash: 24.3 secs; Roche, Berman, Wakker, Karefa-Smart, Webb, Gillespie, Halthide, Halford, Brewerton, Hyman.

880 yards: 2 min., 9½ secs; Berman, Gillespie, Ballon, Brewerton, Hyndman, Vandray, Wolvin, Bagnall, Campbell, Harris.

High jump: 5 feet, 5½ inches; Karefa-Smart, Olson, Roche, Walker, Brewerton, Van Wagner, Deer, Croleau.

120 low hurdles: 15.9 secs; Walker, Brewerton, Van Wagner, Deer, Roche, Bagnall, Karefa-Smart, Bray, Harris.

Discus: 105 feet, 3 inches; Walker, Cooper, Croleau, Wolvin, Roche, Munro, Brewerton, Olson, Gillespie, Webb.

Relay: 50.6 secs; U.A.T.C. Brewerton, Gillespie, Vandray, Roche; Inds., Berman, Karefa-Smart, Croleau, Walker; F Company, Van Wagner, Deer, Strachewitz, Webb.

Company standing: Ind. 108; U.A.T.C. 87; F Coy. 50; E Coy. 23; D Coy. 17; B Coy. 15; Macdonald 5; C Coy. 4; A Coy. 0.

JUNIOR WINNERS

The following students won their McGill Junior M last year. Now that they have successfully completed their year and returned to McGill they are eligible to receive their awards. These will be presented at the Semi-Annual Meeting of the

by Dave

This year the track meet was held under the most adverse conditions possible and yet produced some of the best competition that has been shown at the Molson Stadium in recent years. Harry Walker who proved again that he is the best all-around track man since the great Phil Edwards, carried the Red and White colours to victory in the world competitions.

This is probably the first time too, that so many freshmen have shown such great ability. Ballon and Roche were outstanding both in the dashes and the middle distance events. Probably the greatest surprise was the last minute drive of Ballon in the mile run to take the lead away from Joe Berman, one of the best long-distance runners at McGill.

It looks as if McGill has landed back in sports competition with a bang. At the present moment the most important sport in view is football with McGill all-stars facing the Army this coming Saturday as part of the double header. We have the team now and since entrance to the game is free (don't need any dough, fellas, to bring the girl friend, providing she goes to McGill) we all should get out and give our gridiron warriors some vocal encouragement. Possibly the C.O.T.C. band can be persuaded to provide some martial music to liven up the afternoon. It would be swell if we followed the example of the High School teams and had about five or six co-eds (with one or two men) to lead the great McGill cheering section which we hope will turn out.

The other hot news to come from the Athletic Office is that Dr. Bobby Bell who coached the McGill teams to so many intercollegiate and Senior Group titles will be back at the helm of this year's edition of the great (we hope) Red and White team. With such well known stars as Ross Ritchie, Farmer, Ward, Crutchfield, to build his team around, it appears as if the Defence League trophy will be reposing in the trophy case at the Gym.

Well, Quinn did it again! The great wrestling and now boxing impresario again did the impossible. Not only did he pack over ten thousand hardy souls into the Forum to see the mighty Yvon once more take Wild (I'm from Missouri) Bill over the hurdles but he also contrived to get Jack Sharkey to referee some of the bouts on the Victory Loan card while Sharkey's arch-enemy Jack Dempsey, the great Massa Mauler, handles the main event.

It appears as if after the proverbial seven lean years, Les Canadiens are now entering upon the seven fat ones. The squad that Dick Irvine has out this year looks to be one of the strongest to sport the red, white and blue and with the rest of the teams in the league hard hit by the draft, the Stanley Cup might return to this metropolis after an all-too-long absence (pinch me, I think I'm dreaming).

Dr. Bell to Coach Reds

Former Championship Mentor Returns To McGill

Dr. Bobby Bell, coach of some of the greatest McGill hockey teams of the past decades will once more be at the helm of the mighty Red team when it takes to the ice in the Montreal district defence league, it was announced by the Athletic Office last night. Bell succeeds his own star pupil, Hughie Farquharson, and will be on hand for the first practise which takes place at the Forum to-day at 12:30.

Dr. Bell's record is one of the most impressive that any coach has ever sported. He came to McGill in 1933 and in his first year as mentor, McGill ran away with the inter-collegiate crown and also advanced as far as the Eastern finals in the hunt for the Allan Cup. In following years, although his teams never reached the heights of his great Red team of '33, under his direction McGill retained a firm grasp on the intercollegiate title.

FARQUHARSON SUCCEEDS

In 1938, at the end of the season, Bobby Bell retired from the active direction of the Red pucksters and was succeeded by Hughie Farquharson, one of the greatest stars that he ever developed. When the Defence League came into being in 1940 Dr. Bell came out of his self-enforced retirement to handle one of the service teams.

While attending McGill Dr. Bell himself was an outstanding athlete, winning his letter three years in succession. With the return of McGill to the hockey wars under Bell's guidance we are promised one of the finest teams that ever sported McGill colours.

Claire Renshaw Retains R.V.C. Tennis Crown

Stevens Defeated 6-1; 6-3 in Martin Trophy Final

The final match of the R.V.C. Tennis Tournament which was played on Saturday afternoon saw Claire Renshaw, former champion, retain her title against Thelma Stevens. It was a match that saw great tennis displayed on the part of both contestants.

In the first set, Claire was in championship form. She took the first two games with ease, lost the third one, after closely contested playing and then she walked away with the following four games with little struggle, winning her first set 6-1. The second set was loser and more thrilling, most of the games going to deuce numerous times and each point being won only after considerable battling. Miss Renshaw continued her victorious ways in the second set by taking the first three games without much difficulty. But then Miss Stevens began to rally and put up a great effort to tie the score at 3-3. At this point it appeared as if Miss Stevens might upset the champion by taking this set, but she was unable to stand up against the potent services and slashing returns of her adversary. The second set was taken by Miss Renshaw to the tune of 6-3.

Thus Miss Renshaw once again becomes the R.V.C. Tennis Champion, retaining the coveted Martin Trophy. Her superb styling and co-ordinated play spelled victory for her throughout. Miss Stevens displayed a masterful performance and earned the right of being runner-up to a great player.

An error made in previous issues put Connie Cordell as Jamaica Junior Champion. Mary Davidson was possessor of that title. Also Claire Renshaw was former Quebec Junior Champion. Sincere apologies from the Sports Department!

DUNLOP ENTRY

Although it is not yet official, McGill will probably run a team in the Dunlop road race, the following Friday. For many years the Redmen have run away with the top honors in this city meet, and after the form displayed in the track meet, their chances of a repeat performance are more good.

The first man in the Intercompany meet will score 15 points for his company, the second 14 and so on. The last man, and anyone who finishes the race will also ring the bell to the extent of one point each.

F Coy Beats E Coy 2-0 in Soccer Match

Saturday afternoon F coy. met E coy. at soccer on the upper campus. The match resulted in a victory for F company by a score of 2-0. E suffered its second straight defeat of the season.

F coy. held advantage in the first half but were unable to score against E. Both teams were short handed and this slowed up the game a bit. Many penalties were also inflicted on both teams but they failed to capitalize. In the second half Archibald of E coy broke the tie when he scored on a solo effort. Soon afterwards Poznan-ski scored on a penalty shot. This ended the scoring for the day. Atkinson forward shone for E coy.

The winning of this game sets F coy. on top of the league. F coy. will face C coy. this Wednesday to decide the championship.

Jones sent $2.00 to a cern that advertised to send 5 pairs of hose by mail for that sum. When they arrived he looked them over and then wrote the senders: "Hose arrived. The patterns are vile. I wouldn't be seen on the street with them on."

Back came the answer. "What are you kicking about? Didn't we advertise that you wouldn't wear them out?"

McGill Wrestlers to Hold Practise Tomorrow at 5:15

The McGill Wrestling Club held its 2nd meeting of the season Friday. The mats were a hot-bed of activity as the boys started getting themselves into shape. There is a considerable influx of new material this season and the Freshmen have turned out in force.

Meetings are held every Tuesday and Friday at 5.15 in the B.W. and F. Room at the gym. The only necessary equipment is sweatshirt, shorts and running shoes. Anyone desiring further information should get in touch with Jim Stewart, CL. 7447.

to do half a day's work until they were toughened up.

The case of one student from agricultural college objecting to being asked to harness a horse was typical of the difficulties some farmers had encountered with their "green" help.

Difficulties had been encountered by the central harvest help committee in placing small under-sized boys on farms. The last harvest excursion from Montreal had brought high school youths small in stature and unfitted for heavy harvest work.

Rumors Started.

Smaller boys unable to be placed on farms in the west had apparently wired or written their parents in Quebec starting rumors about the treatment of the lads in the west. National Selective Service queried Mr. Dawson concerning the rumors circulating in the east.

Mr. Dawson immediately wired a reply stating that all the students of good physique, although young and inexperienced, had been sent to farms. The smaller students presented a difficult problem as jobs on farms for them were difficult to find. He stressed there was no need for anxiety on the part of the parents in the east as all the boys were being taken care of and would be placed as soon as suitable work was found.

V. C. Phalen, chief employment officer, unemployment insurance commission, Ottawa, has authorized the harvest labor officials in Saskatchewan to place boys who cannot get harvest work in other forms of employment.

Proportions of Misfits Small

McGill and Macdonald students who came West to assist us with the harvest.

I can at the moment only speak from first hand knowledge of the situation at Regina, and I must state definitely that press reports emanating from this Province appear to me to be grossly exaggerated. I may say that most of these stories originated in Saskatchewan, and there are no McGill nor Macdonald university students in that part of the Province.

For the purpose of obtaining first hand information on the situation at Saskatchewan, I am leaving for that point tonight but I feel sure there is no particular difficulty there.

In so far as the Regina area is concerned and as it refers particularly to McGill and Macdonald students, I may say there has undoubtedly been a percentage of the boys who were not physically up to the hard work that threshing operations in this Province demand. Generally speaking, the boys have been willing and have made a real try, but some have just not been able to make it. This situation, however, is, I believe, one that is easily understood, and when consideration is given to the very large number who came west from McGill and Macdonald universities I feel that the percentage of misfits is comparatively low.

While a considerable number of boys have had some difficulties of various kinds, a very large percentage have been continuously employed, and have presented no problem whatsoever. We have decided that it would be advisable to return those who are obviously unfit for the work, and some of these will arrive in Montreal tomorrow night, and a few others the following night. The total of these is approximately thirty-five.

There are also a few in the City of Regina at the moment who are willing and able to take employment, but this is not available because of adverse weather conditions. The number of these does not in my opinion exceed ten. They are being taken care of either in the Y.M.C.A. or good clean hotels. Meals in good restaurants are also being provided when necessary.

Time does not permit of giving a detailed report of the whole plan at this time, but later on it is my hope that I shall be able to give you full and definite information. In the meantime I would like to state that from the point of view of harvesting and threshing our crop, the plan was an unqualified success, as more progress has been made in the past twelve days than was the case in the previous two months, when weather conditions and labour shortage prevented normal harvest and threshing operations.

I would like to take this opportunity of expressing to you our appreciation for your action in sending Professor John Culliton to Regina with your boys. He has been most helpful and understanding, and I feel that not only has he been able to perform a very real service to the students of McGill but he has also assisted us greatly in all of our dealings with the boys from that University.

Yours faithfully,
L. Dawson,
Secretary Harvest Labour Committee.

The following letter was received by Principal James this morning from the parent of one of the McGill boys:

"In view of the publicity appearing in the local Press concerning the students, etc., who went west to assist in the harvesting operations, I thought that you might be interested in knowing that my younger son has written in the most enthusiastic terms about his experience. He expressed his opinion by writing 'We are really having a swell time!'" claims that these rumors are largely unfounded.

Letters received from the McGill students largely substantiate Prof. Culliton's statement, according to the "Daily". The general tone of these is to the effect that they are doing a man's job with few comforts and liking it.

or greed for money, but under sheer economic pressure.

The situation had become increasingly serious, Professor Hughes pointed out, since fewer and fewer candidates were coming forward to take the training course.

In conclusion, Prof. Hughes urged his listeners not to forget that "our civilization is based upon the solid foundations of the classics, the humanities and on religion." The menace, he said, was to the universities and the churches.

"We must guard these precious heritages," said Prof. Hughes, "in the interests of the future of our children, of Canada, of the Empire, and of humanity."

Dobie Directs IVCF Meeting

"From England," said Prof. Hughes, "comes the advice: Don't close schools anywhere if you can help it. Don't call up school teachers or let them enlist; expand instead of cutting down on normal educational facilities."

Britain had substantially increased her budget for education, he said, and had also made increased grants for war bonuses for teachers, whose average salary was $1,481 per annum for men, and $1,128 per annum for women.

"Quebec Province has a minimum of $400 per annum, and no war bonus," said Professor Hughes. "Our teachers leave teaching for better makes them enlist, may at a certain point tend to weaken the school's potential contribution to the war effort."

There are also a few in the City of Regina at the moment who are willing and able to take employment, but this is not available because of adverse weather conditions. The number of these does not in my opinion exceed ten. They are being taken care of either in the Y.M.C.A. or good clean hotels. Meals in good restaurants are also being provided when necessary.
